Suit settled for $47,500 in employees' pay claim

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A $47,500 settlement has been reached in the 1975 lawsuit involving nine former city employees who sued the city claiming they were denied compensation for overtime worked before they were dismissed from their positions.

The suit, entered in Wayne County Circuit Court in 1976, alleged that Edmund Bizak, Barry Baumann, Lorraine Kubiak, Carole Bales, James Radford, John Chihan, James Darnell, Chuck Lethemon, Daniel Lambert, George Hartgrove and Robert Plank were denied payment for unused compensation time when they were fired in 1975.

Darnell, a former ordinance officer, has since died and Lethemon, who worked in the Building Department, has been dropped from the suit.

The monetary award means that the employees will receive differing amounts of accumulated compensation pay, plus interest, for overtime worked prior to their termination.

The lawsuit asked for reimbursement of $595.08 for Bizak, $521.63 for Baumann, $802.80 for Kubiak, $2,075.64 for Bales, $4,447.14 for Radford, $1,955.34 for Chihan, $2,222.64 for Lambert, $270.65 for Hartgrove and $3,218.33 for Plank.

The city council last week instructed the treasurer to prepare a check payable to all the plaintiffs, including interest accumulated during the last 10 years.

An additional claim, calling for their reinstatement with full backpay, was not granted, according to the city's attorney, Peter O'Rourke, saving the city at least $900,000.

The former employees were fired from their various positions in city hall when Mayor Terry Trout lost his bid for mayor and the new city administrator, Jimmy Stewart, took office.

The positions were considered political appointments, according to observers and the ensuing suit led city officials to call the case a "question of political alliances" when two camps, one urging payment of the suit and the other opposing reimbursement, emerged during the last 10 years.

"It was a matter of political allies on the part of those who testified in favor of the plaintiffs," suggested O'Rourke.

Fieger labeled the proceedings a "political game."

Stewart had dismissed the employees, all department heads, before any had submitted letters of resignation, as mandated by the city charter when a new mayor takes office.

"I regret the misuse of power that brought the situation into being," Mayor Beverly McNally said recently. "I regret, too, that the city council did not recognize the potential for harm to the city by continuing to resist satisfying the claims for a minimal cost."

McNally was a council member at the time the suit was filed.

She testified in 34th District Court last week that the city's policy was to pay employees for unused compensation time.

"The eventual cost to the city would have been much higher had it not been for the mayor's testimony," admitted Jeff Fieger, the attorney for the employees. "Had it not been for the city council members who carried on for the last 10 years, it would have been settled much sooner. I think settlement was based solely on her intervention."

The city policy during Trout's term allowed non-union employees to accumulate overtime for hours worked in excess of 48 per week.

Employees were allowed to keep a record of their overtime hours and were subsequently offered reimbursement via "comp" time, or time off, corresponding to the additional hours worked.

The city's position at the time was that their was no actual policy regarding compensation time with respect to paying employees who left the employment of the city.

The city, in a motion by then-council member William Oakley and supported by Jimmie Raspberry in February 1976, amended the language of the ambiguous comp time policy by calling for salaried employees to receive "only that compensation which is established in budget appropriations fixed by city council."

Compensation was to be in full for all official service in lieu of fees.

According to Marilyn Radford, the city's personnel director, there is no longer allowed accumulated compensation time. Non-union employees who work in excess of 40 hours per week are given the time off in compensation immediately.

This differs from the former policy, she said, in that "building up" comp time for use as a mini-vacation, for example, is no longer provided.

The recent settlement, according to both attorneys, does not create a precedent for other such compensation claims.

"This should not happen again because the question of compensation has been so clearly defined," O'Rourke said. "They are not now faced with that question of liability."

McNally said payment will come out of a fund set up to satisfy claims against the city.

"If it had been up to me, I would have settled this in 1975 when I was a council member, she added. "Not only has this led to considerable hard feelings for the city but the expense of (retaining) Mr. O'Rourke has been great."

Suspect held in Flagg's theft

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A preliminary examination is scheduled for today (Wednesday) in 34th District Court for the suspect in the robbery of a Romulus restaurant on Middlebelt and Wick roads.

Darrell Eugene Nesbitt, 30, a Detroit resident, was arraigned Nov. 12 on charges of armed robbery and felony firearm for the Nov. 11 hold-up of Flagg's, a local eatery.

Nesbitt was held in Wayne County Jail pending today's preliminary. Bond was set at $25,000 cash.

According to police reports, two male suspects wearing ski masks and armed with handguns entered the restaurant and demanded that the waitress open the cash register.

An undisclosed amount of money was extracted, police said.

At least five people witnessed the incident, which occurred at approximately 1:20 a.m.

The suspects escaped in a black Oldsmobile reported stolen from Inskter. Their escape was then traced by patrol officers who intercepted a radio call of the vehicle heading north on Middlebelt Road.

Officers then pursued the suspects in a 3-mile chase that ended on Beverly and Central roads.

Police said that the suspects exited the car and ran in different directions to avoid capture.

Nesbitt was apprehended and arrested after a brief chase through Metro Mobile Trailer Court off Van Born Road in Romulus.

The cash drawer allegedly stolen from Flagg's was found in the vehicle, police said.

Police are attributing the acquisition of evidence to that of a citizen who located a jacket allegedly belonging to one of the suspects in her backyard.

A handgun apparently used in the crime was later found by an officer investigating the area.

Officer John Hlinak, who entered in the chase of the suspects, later returned to the scene and located a garden plot exhibiting a footprint. The plaster cast made by Hlinak will help determine the size shoe of one of the suspects, police said.

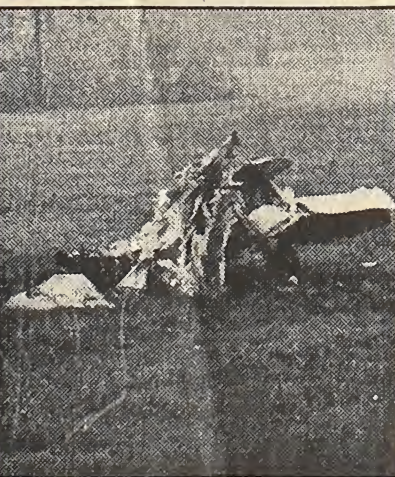

One suspect still eludes capture, police said. They have described him as a black male in his early 20s, approximately 5'8"-5'10" and 150-170 pounds.

Anyone with information about the incident can contact local police at 941-8400.

Pilot's identity confirmed in Metro airplane crash

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Metro airport sheriffs have identified the pilot of the twin engine Cessna that crashed in a grassy southeast section of the airport Nov. 12 as that of Philip K. Weller.

An instrument landing approach is used when a visual landing is not possible.

According to investigators, the aircraft hit a berm, a small hill usually surrounding a ditch. Rescuers said the aircraft could not be observed from Eureka Road because it was hidden from view by the berm.

Plane fragments disintegrated into a long irrigation ditch, which further hid the plane from view.

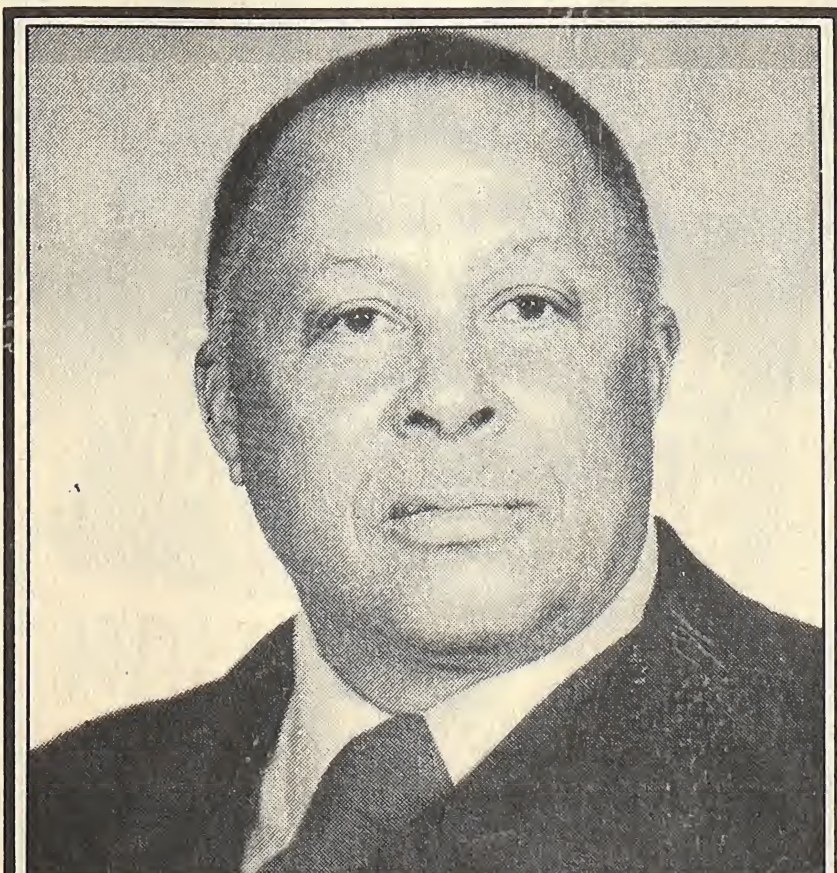

According to the sheriff's department, Weller had made a stop in New Jersey and was destined to Chicago's O'Hare Airport when Metro radar towers lost sight of his plane at approximately 2:18 a.m.

The plane wreck was not discovered until 8 a.m. because of the heavy fog that had settled over the airport, officials reported.

There was no report of fires or explosions, said Nancy Mouradian, from the Wayne County Sheriff's public relations office. The flames or sound of explosions might have alerted rescuers earlier, she said.

A Wayne County Medical Examiner's report has yet to be released with information as to whether Weller was killed upon impact or survived the initial crash.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department at the airport has closed its investigation of the incident.

Romulus councilman Jimmie Raspberry retired from office recently after nearly 30 years of public service. His departure leaves a void that city officials recognize will be hard to fill. Westland youth faces charge

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland juvenile is being held in the Wayne County Youth Home pending a trial date for the Nov. 14 armed robbery attempt at a Total Gas Station in Romulus.

Police Monday confirmed that a 14-year-old, whose name was withheld due to his age, was charged with armed robbery in the theft of an undisclosed amount of money at the gas station located on Wayne and Ecorse roads.

Police were called to the scene by an attendant, who described the suspect as a black male, 5 feet tall and apparently a juvenile.

She told police the youth entered the station with a sawed-off shotgun and demanded money from the cash register.

Dispatchers radioed patrol cars of the fleeing suspect and Officer Tim O'Neil spotted the youth running across Wayne-Ecorse Road.

According to police reports, a shotgun fell from a duffle bag he was carrying as he fled.

He was immediately apprehended and money found on him was suspected as that allegedly stolen in the hold-up.

Information about the youth is incomplete. Wayne County Youth officials refused to comment about the arraignment or the pending preliminary hearing, saying that the information was "confidential."

Romulus police admit that the idea of a 14-year-old committing a robbery is "unusual but not the first time" an incident like the gas station theft has occurred.

"But I'll say it's unusual when the suspect uses a real gun," said Officer Mike Ondejko.

Insp. Ken Krause said Tuesday that the department is awaiting instructions from juvenile authorities to proceed with the case.

If the case is sent to trial, the youth could potentially be sentenced to a youth incarceration facility if found guilty.

City drug program aimed at youths

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A drug program for troubled youths aimed at "turning them around" to a better life is seeking volunteers during its beginning stages.

A diversionary program for youth ages 7 through 16, the Romulus Youth Assistance Program, sponsored by the city, relies on community volunteers who work as para-counselors.

"We call it positive reinforcement," Margaret LeDuc, a volunteer helping to organize the program under the auspices of the public safety department and the Romulus Help Center. "We're looking for volunteers, such as a neighbor or aunt, to talk to these kids."

After all these years

Raspberry exits political arena but leaves his legacy

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

It's not that he was defeated this time around. It's not, either, that he lost interest. Nor was it because the political heat was too hot.

No, when Councilman Jimmie Raspberry chose not to run for the office of city council during this past General Election, his reasons were more simplistic than any with which a political opponent could reckon.

After almost three decades in public service, Raspberry opted out of this race, but not before he held himself up to public scrutiny and came out ahead and not before he established a legacy of good, honest politicking with the likes of Rep. William Ford, Sen. William Faust and Rep. Edward Mahalek, all colleagues during the same political period.

So it was with remorse, not relief, that he made his final exit from his council chair Nov. 4 as he bid farewell to his colleagues and constituents.

Personal reasons, he said back in September and again this month, prevented him from continuing in the capacity of what others have labeled their most "admired" public figure.

"What more can I say but thanks for giving me the opportunity to serve all these years," he modestly told the audience during his last public speech. "It's an honor to have been here in this seat all these years."

An honor for him but good fortune for citizens who depended on his continued and embittered fight for truth and justice within the walls of city hall.

He may not have been popular among the status quo or city officials, he admits, but he ventured forth with his own unique kind of politics—and usually won the respect, if not the approval, of those he was up against.

Calling himself the "people's politician", Raspberry managed to mesh his political philosophy and his concern for the underdog into a neatly polished package, and one that usually raised the ire, if not the political angst, of his opponents.

Attributing his political philosophy to his earlier years while a student studying Negro history in Alabama, which he claims gave him a solid background on "my people", Raspberry soon found his concerns more universal and more refined.

"I don't perceive myself as a person who believes in promoting civil rights," he said. "Why should we have civil rights—we should be looking toward human rights, that's what this is all about."

"I like to work for the underdog and I've always been that way," he added.

Perhaps too much so for his own good, he admits, when the records are pulled and the votes tallied on all the city officials who rallied around Raspberry during one of his filibuster speeches at a council meeting.

The truth, when examined, is that he was not the most popular member, he admits, but where he lacked support from his colleagues, he usually made up for it two-fold in the gratitude exhibited by his constituents.

There was the proposal to reassess city property that angered Raspberry and exasperated others over his vehement opposition, the crusade to straighten out the water and sewer debt that had that department up in arms over his intervention and lately, his stance against the official support of a Romulus police officer charged with manslaughter.

He was, in his own words, much like a "fox in a chicken coop" during most of his tenure on the council.

But Romulus folks are country people and many appreciated the hard-nosed, back-country way Raspberry handled things.

"He was not one to throw flowers of praise on himself," Julia Carter, an admirer said recently, "but you didn't have to go far to see the bouquets" sent his way from those who appreciated the results of his work.

His more concrete contributions can be found in the Senior Citizen apartment complex and the new post office recently opened, which he was instrumental in pushing to development.

Congressman William Ford said recently that Raspberry dedicated his career to public service in Romulus. His retirement, he added, will leave a very large hole to be filled in city government.

"During one of the longest, uninterrupted terms of office in the state as a member of city council, Jimmie had a feel for singling out the important issues of the day—such things as toxic waste disposal and the need for honesty in government," Ford commented. "His services will indeed be missed."

His political career began in the late 40s while campaigning for Charles Diggs and working in the United Auto Workers.

He began what would soon be cultivated into his famous lengthy speeches at council meetings as a Ford Motor Company union representative. His stay at Ford was as impressive as his tenure in Romulus. He worked at Ford's for 32 years.

In June 1943, Raspberry moved to Romulus. Twelve years later, he would find himself a constable and an appointed police officer for the then Romulus Township in 1955.

That pattern would be repeated again and again in 1957, 1959, and in 1961, as a Romulus Township Trustee, a position he held until the township became a city in 1970.

He was elected a city council chairperson in 1970 and served consecutive terms from then until 1985 with the exception of 1973-75 during which he was defeated in his only loss at the polls.

That would make him, according to the records, the longest serving public official in the history of the township and the city.

Another long-time member of the council and one who easily associates the earlier days with Raspberry, Fred Junior Block, recently commented that it was Raspberry who imparted a lot of the information to the council that they needed when first starting out as a city.

"He had something that he gave to the council and the people—he's been controversial but he did a good job championing for them," said Block.

Adding that they didn't always agree, a feature common to many of Raspberry's colleagues, Block said it wasn't always important to agree, after all, "we're not there for each other, we're there for the people."

And in true to style, Raspberry continued to "disagree" with many of the items and proposals on the council agenda that he felt didn't "best represent" the people.

What he'll miss most, he said, is the constant voice and decision-rendering he's made over the last 30 years.

"I can only hope that the current council feels as I do that it's a privilege to serve the people," he said. "To be cognizant at all times in looking after the interests of the people in making decisions is important."

"I hate to see Jimmie retire—he's been the watchdog for the city since he's been there," former State Rep. Edward Mahalek said recently.

Mahalek, recently retired due to poor health, said Raspberry was "well-versed" on the city charter and in general, a quality that he said was important in the earlier days of the newborn city.

"I just know that there is nobody to replace him," Mahalek added.

Raspberry was well-versed in the city charter and in the attorney general rulings, a feature that many council members laugh about now but exhibited little patience with his frequent digressions and his "point of interests" taken from Robert's Rules of Order.

The council, he says in defense of himself, has to change its ways and become more active in city dealings.

"When you've got a body of seven people and you never see them until the night of the meeting, it's hard to communicate. They are intelligent people but I don't know if they understand the reasons why they are (on the council)," Raspberry said.

He promises he'll still be around—around his familiar house in Romulus, around city hall and especially around the council chambers, only this time it will be on the other side of the table, as an observer, a critic and a staunch supporter of the city.

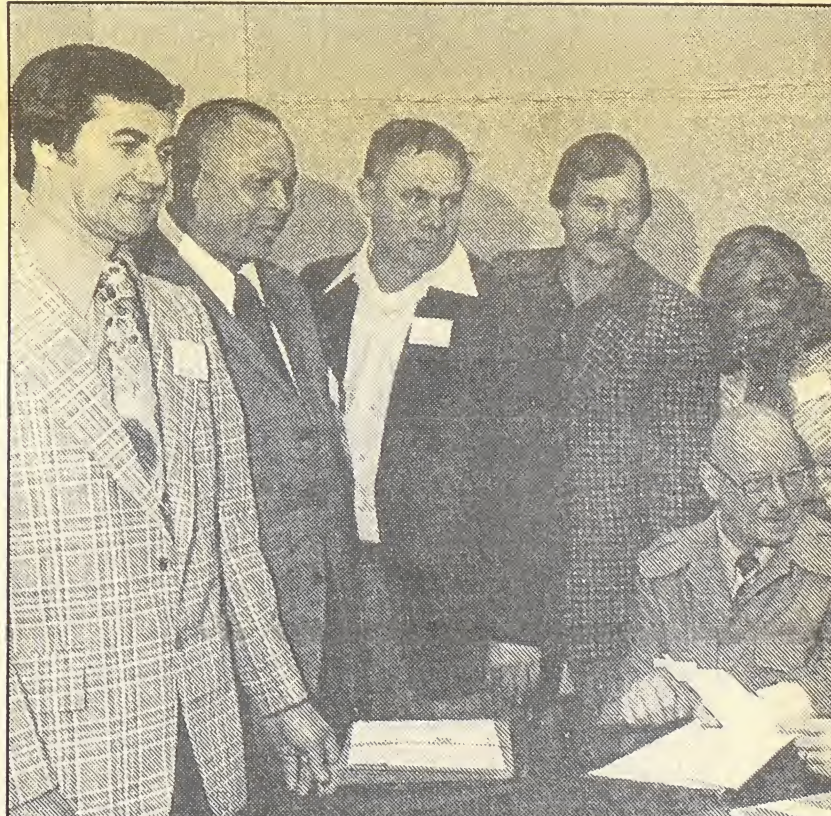

Citizens may, he alluded, see him around during the next election if retirement doesn't suit him in the next two years.

Jimmie Raspberry began his political career with friends such as Congressman William Ford, Sen. William Faust and Rep. Ed Mahalek, all of whom expressed their regrets over Raspberry's departure from politics.

Raspberry (far right) attended, in 1976, Congressman Ford's conference. He would remain close friends throughout his career with the longtime politician. Above, Raspberry addresses his constituents during the grand opening ceremonies of the new city hall building. Below, again attending a political conference sponsored by Bill Ford, former councilman Jerry Canejo, Raspberry, current council member Fred Junior Block, former mayor, William Oakley and current treasurer John Lewkowicz are shown.

Raspberry, as demonstrated in these photos, prided himself on keeping a direct line open to the public and public officials to better serve in the capacity of council member.

Drug rehab offered by city

Coordinated through schools, the police department and the courts, the program offers youths an opportunity to talk out their problems in a less-structured atmosphere.

Participants will be screened and once selected, will receive regular appointments with a volunteer. Swimming, ice skating and other activities are encouraged as a way of "breaking the ice" and steering away from drugs.

The program, while strictly voluntary, allows participants an alternative to the criminal justice system, a "diversionary tactic" designed to avoid incarceration.

The idea, begun out of a recognition that Romulus youths are not being helped when incarcerated, looks to the question of what should be done before incarceration takes place, according to LeDuc.

"There is a fair amount of juvenile delinquency in this city," she said. "What are we going to do about these kids?" she asked.

A man for all seasons. . .

It has come to our attention that we've been extremely remiss in failing to address a momentous occasion that occurred recently in Romulus--the departure, after almost three decades, of a noted and respected politician, Jimmie Raspberry.

At first we thought we would wait until we could gather more information on the gentleman and scholar, after all, it takes a while to accumulate all the facts available after some 30 years in the political arena.

But recently, we were reminded of our failings by the numerous phone calls, comments and letters we received regarding the lack of fanfare over Raspberry's retirement.

A political synopsis of this man's career could take days. Suffice it to say that an all-encompassing view of his political philosophy could render even scholars speechless for Raspberry operated within his own realm of reason and fairness.

He was an independent operator, a rebel with a cause (always with a cause) who took no offense at offending even his colleagues or the mayor if he felt their stance was out of order on an issue.

As one colleague and longtime political ally said, "there is nobody to replace him" now that he has left his home away from home.

Raspberry began his political career in Detroit and he brought with him the vigor and political prowess to succeed for the last thirty years in Romulus.

What started as a novice interest in politics soon blossomed into political savvy, enough to grant him access to conversations with some of the most difficult men and women in the state.

These associations, in turn, led to some of the more concrete examples of his work--the Senior Citizen Towers and the Carl Morris Post Office.

And while his time-honored tradition of taking time out of a council meeting to impart what he felt was a bit of vital information may have caused a few heads to shake in disapproval, his extravagances were always excused--perhaps because he usually proved to be the most well-read and learned member of the group.

Raspberry had his political opponents, some of whom sat with him on the council. Regardless of the tongue-lashings and the sometimes insipid remarks tossed among council members, his major concern was always with what was in the best interests of the people for whom he so laboriously served.

He has been labeled a champion for the people and has often described himself as a fighter for "the underdog."

Few would argue with these definitions and even fewer could find his replacement.

What he lost in support from his colleagues he made up for in the adoration of his fans, and that is exactly what they were, fans.

Raspberry ruled over the city like Elvis Presley over rock and roll--he had style and conviction-- a combination lethal for those unaccustomed to his manner. His integrity was enough to lend credence to almost anything he did and grant him the respect that his constituents learned to give.

What the mayors said or did created news, but what Jimmie Raspberry said instilled a sense of relief and security for those who knew that he was out there fighting for them and not himself.

He had other enemies too, as one often does when adhering to a maverick political stance such as his--an independent who offered no promises that he couldn't keep.

But he kept his unspoken promise to search for justice amid the political meanderings of others and the rhetoric so often associated with his line of work.

His voice will be missed but one can only look to the past to discern the possibility that the voice will not be stilled.

Not as long as the possibility exists that the council fails to follow the city charter or fails to adhere to Robert's Rules of Order. Not as long as there is even the slightest possibility that some infringement of human rights has occurred will his predictable "point of order" request be silenced.

Raspberry has lived too long in Romulus and too long with politics to remain quiet for long, quite possibly to the chagrin of those officials who thought they had rid themselves of their "fox in a chicken coop."

Geneva: Rocky IV?

Before this newspaper is delivered, the Geneva Summit will be well underway. Although world affairs are not usually within the scope of our news horizons, the importance of this meeting justifies our attention.

There are those times when the source of human existence on this planet is destined for redirection. This meeting between the superpowers could, no doubt, be such a time. Disarmament, Star Wars, human rights, third-world intervention...these are but a few of the issues on the table at Geneva.

When President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev finally part from the summit table, we will have crossed the line, we will no longer be anticipating and speculating as to how these two world-class fighters will perform.

Both men have proven themselves to be contenders for the all-too-real, heavyweight championship of the world.

In one corner we have a 54-year old from Privolnoye, Krasnogvardeisky District of Stavropol who has demonstrated he is a tough, determined, yet charming debator.

Across the ring is a 74-year old veteran of many contests from Tampico, Illinois. His record of accomplishments is close to legend.

Which slugger will go the distance, score the most blows or be the decisive winner we may learn very soon, but a K.O. is not probable. Unlike other clashes of Titans, this battle will for now be a war of wits. It would appear that only a draw in this contest will offer any hope of world peace.

We will perhaps not know for years the significance of the words that pass between Reagan and Gorbachev and the impact they have on the shaky relations between the Soviet Union and the United States and the balance of power on the planet earth.

Let us watch closely the resulting accord or the lack of cooperation and agreement. For truly, the future of mankind is hanging in the balance.

Clerk defends actions

To The Editor:
There exists a great deal of controversy, commentary and confusion surrounding the business of government in Canton Township. I view this as a normal, healthy manifestation of government and useful, if it brings soluable (sic) problems to light.

What I fear is that real issues will be lost in an ocean of fabricated issues of little importance.

The real issue is providing cost effective government accountable to the people.

I cannot afford to go along to get along. I cannot buy a climate conducive to my career objectives if I do so at the residents of this township's expense.

Residents who struggle with an ever increasing township water bill do not know that when they pay their water bill they are buying 72 baseball caps, supplementing water provided for a private landscaping concern at little or no cost to that company and footing the bill for a good old boy philosophy of running township government that we can ill afford to perpetuate.

Residents have careers and lives that they are busy with. When they vote a clerk into office they expect that clerk to run the business of government with a sharp eye toward saving money. I cannot serve two masters. If cost effective government puts me at odds with the vested interests of the township, then I must first

A considered response

One of the more agonizing decisions we all must face at some time or another, is how to respond in a less than pleasant situation. We must carefully choose our responses to critics, antagonists, and to those who intentionally or unintentionally cause us pain.

The Bible speaks of "turning the other cheek," to one's enemies. To do so, however, is easier said than done for most of us mortals.

There are many who would provoke a confrontation in order to entrap their perceived opponent into the quagmire of a "lose-lose" situation. In so doing, they hope to precipitate a "win-win" for their own interests or cause at the expense of another.

People often think newspapers and the "media" are the only propagators of damaging misinformation.

You've all heard the "old saw" that newspapers print a story on the front page, but if and when an error in fact is discovered, the correction is buried in the last section. Such supporting arguments against the media are based in truth but blind to obvious realities, at least to a journalist.

I'm reminded again of past Governor George Romney's comments to a Michigan Press Association luncheon gathering I attended. In his remarks, he pointed out that it is easy for an accuser to bombard a high-profile target, in Romney's case a politician, with a burst of half truths. Romney suggested that critics revel in aiming their factoids at their target knowing that the occasion they have chosen, such as a press conference, does not allow the intended victim to respond adequately to the assault. It's called premeditation.

What we must grasp when it happens to us, is what is actually occurring. When we "fall for it," and get caught up in the game others try to play at our expense, we help make ourselves out to be fools, which is their intent.

If, as an example I telephone you to say "I have two or three questions and concerns . . . may we discuss them?" Then most likely a reasonably intelligent exchange will follow.

We would no doubt have a give-and-take conversation, hopefully with both participants listening and learning, . . . expressing a point of view . . . but each open to the thoughts and ideas of the other. The goal of the interplay would no doubt be to seek truth and light and not to score on the opponent.

On the other hand, if I called you, took an antagonistic tack, fired in machine gun fashion a barrage of questions, said I wanted your response, but then immediately informed you that "I don't have time to talk to you right now," what you should give me is polite listening, a firm resolve and no arguments.

For to let the conversation degenerate would only cause the situation to fester into an even worse situation.

Where then, do we draw the line when those who wish us harm take liberty with the truth . . . when others, by spoken word, perhaps in a letter, in print, or even over the air waves, intentionally attempt to misrepresent the truth?

Westland Mayor Charles Pickering has been quoted as saying that he believes by not responding to false accusations from his political opponents he lost the recent election. Is that true, or is he himself indulging in mistruths by implying that there were false charges against him?

What happens when we are the victim of attacks by others? We're all familiar with such sayings as, "don't get mad, get even," or, "what goes around, comes around". How does Christain culture and teaching interface with such vindictiveness and with our own resultant feelings as a victim?

I confess that we in this business are faced with such dilemmas on a routine basis. We are verbally assaulted in person and on the telephone, through the mail, and even on occasion by less-than-reputable competing publications with little to lose and a great deal to win by cooking up a farcial confrontation.

Too often, we are confronted by their attorneys, either in court or with written threats of legal action against us.

What then, is the motivation behind such combative behavior? Some seek their own agrandizement, some seek redress for some other alleged or preceived wrongdoing, some attempt to pull themselves up by pulling others down.

Some for reasons not clear at the onset, serve those who trust I brought with me to this office.

When I refuse to release funds for projects not in the public interest, I will be the center of the wrath of local politicians who wish to spend township monies as if it were their own.

I will continue to try and bring responsible professional government to this office. I will put accusations, allegations and finger pointing into perspective for what it is; simply the staff of which politics is made.

I am looking into ways to halt the practice of providing water to private companies with the bulk of the cost falling on the residents' shoulders, and I will continue to be a thorn in the side of any township official who uses the monies collected from the residents of the township in a less than responsible manner.

Grandma speaks out

To The Editor:

Not being in either the Plymouth School District or of Rev. Pals' denomination, but concerned about the views of David Conley's article on public apathy to the Gundella caper of Oct. 30th, I feel his views must be challenged.

As a grandmother, I find his defense of the board's 7-0 vote, a bit overly emotional, irrational, and frightening. Simply because the board was outnumbered, or parents applauded loudly, or 3 yr. olds covered their ears (they do THAT all the time, even at ballgames) does not beg sympathy for a "poor" beleaguered school board. The frightening thing is the attitude of duly elected officials who arrogantly and stubbornly refuse to respond with professional sensitivity to parents. This hostile attitude is a growing problem with other elected representatives in many areas of parent-child relationships.

To Gundella, I say: lecture the authors of dictionaries. All five of mine (old and new issues) term witchcraft as; sorcery, i.e. supernatural evil, etc.

To Rev. Pals and parents I say: THANKS for caring about today's children. You DO have the right to protest under our Constitution (but it is frowned on if the cause is not "chic" enough!)

To the school board, I say: THANKS for caring about today's children. You DO have the right to protest under our Constitution (but it is frowned on if the cause is not "chic" enough!)

To the school board, I say: don't waste students time with irrelevant and intellectually empty entertainment. Get on with academically valid studies. Remember parents also VOTE.

To Mr. Conley, maybe one responded because witchcraft belongs isolated in the 1600's when it flourished in Europe and was naturally brought here with the Puritans. It was an idiosyncrasy of that time and not in the 1985 world of children and education.

Sincerely,
Ann J. Miller

O'Leary's future questioned

To The Editor:

Although I fear I may have read the last of Steve O'Leary's gushing over such giants of entertainment as the "Boomtownt Rats," I wish him success in his new position as a talented reporter.

If he hangs around enough bathrooms and destroys enough people, who knows how many awards he might win by the time he grows up?

Police praised

To The Editor:

I wish to thank the Van Buren Township Police Department for their professional support and help. Specifically, Chief L. Keller, Detective Roy Schroeder, and Corporal Ken Brooks as they were kind, considerate, and caring.

Unfortunately, I was assaulted on the I-275 bike path on June 17, 1985. I feel that the Van Buren Police did a fine job with the case.

New mayor sets record straight

To The Editor:

I would like to set the record straight on a few matters.

Firstly, during our campaign, the members of the slate and I at no time alleged "misuses" of any funds. The point we made throughout the campaign was that certain monies had been "wasted". We hold with this belief, as it would seem the majority of Belleville voters do.

Secondly, we made no innuendos.

Lastly, we all ran for office because we were concerned about the direction that the city was taking. The only promise that was made to anyone including the police department was to listen, spend money wisely and to take a common sense approach to city government.

We look forward to the challenges ahead of us and we would like to thank again the citizens of Belleville for their support and encouragement.

feel threatened, and choose to take a "best defense is a good offense" approach.

In our business, our response may include an argumentative stance in a verbal exchange or just a debating posture. It could be a rebuttal through the pages of these newspapers. It could include legal action against the perpetrator, or it may be met with silence, or the other cheek.

There are times when the cost of silence or preservation of tranquility is too high. There are times when redress is required in the strongest possible terms appropriate. We learn in school that the rights of others end where ours begin and vice versa.

Violation of your rights or mine should be met with a response. If we chose to not respond then our assailants escape redress by our grace alone.

Part of what is wrong with this crazy, yet wonderful, world is that many escape the cost of breaking the law, or violating the rights of others. Of course, there tends to be little agreement about who really was violated or what should be the appropriate punishment for the crime . . . and that, dear friends, is why we have attorneys and a court system.

About the only thing that can be said for our criminal justice system is that it is more civilized than animal behavior. Some ignorant barbarians would still prefer to "meet out back in the alley" and do. The final outcome of such behavior is usually bloodshed or even death.

This week I talked with a man who was victimized by a maniacal assailant. When the victim responded to the assault with legal action, ironically it was he who was shunned. Who would do such a thing you ask? The answer is those whom the victim considered his colleagues, friends and neighbors. Enough said. But sometimes people surprise us. Those we expect the least from, reveal themselves to have a commodity scarce these days . . . character. Others disappoint us miserably.

The anarchists of the world would disagree, but I still choose to believe that the truth will ultimately win out over lies and deceit, that it requires more substance and character to walk away from a confrontation then to seek damage and retribution against others . . . especially when you know you have the strength, determination, power, or resources to win.

To you gentle readers I say . . . peace, but not at any price. See you next week.

Will Mills sign with U-M

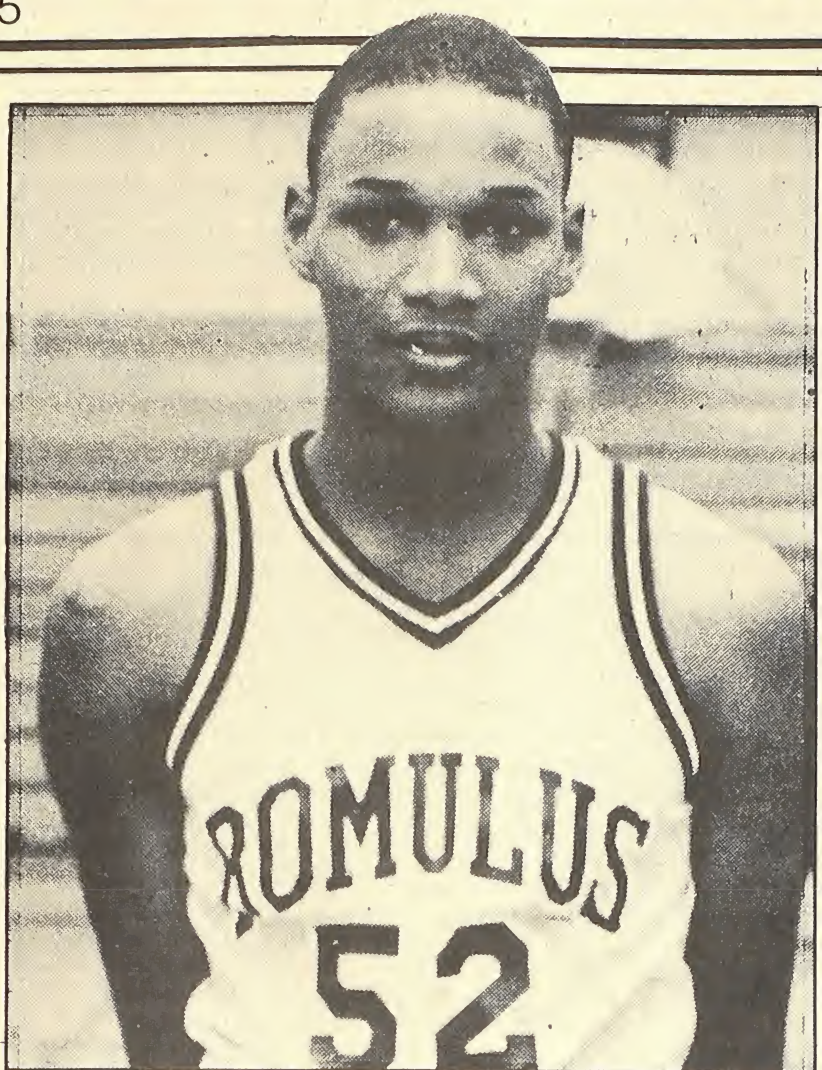

Terry Mills, considered the No. 1 high school basketball player in the country, has made up his mind where he wants to continue his education and play college ball.

But the state and the country will not learn of the 6-9 Romulus High School star's decision until sometime this afternoon when coach Al Wilkerson has called a press conference.

"We have decided to announce where Terry will be attending school in the fall before the season begins to take the pressure off of him, so that we can get on with the season," Wilkerson said.

The press conference is scheduled for 4 p.m. today (Wednesday) in the school library of the high school located at 9650 S. Wayne Road.

Mills, who scored 598 points in his junior year in leading the Eagles to the Metro-West Conference Championship and a 19-4 won-lost season, is one of the most sought-after prep cagers in the country. Although coach Wilkerson refused to comment which of the colleges or universities will be the recipient of Mills's letter of intent, reliable sources say that the Romulus ace will be heading for Ann Arbor and the University of Michigan next fall.

"I can't comment on that," said Wilkerson. "I can say, however, that we decided to get this out of the way so that Terry can have a social life and lift all of the pressure off of him and his teammates. All of us here are proud of him and the recognition he has brought to the city and his high school."

"Let me also add that Terry has handled the pressure very well."

Mills, who will turn 18 on Dec. 21, is a nephew of former Romulus cage great and Detroit Piston star, Johnny Long.

Mills' teammate, Stevie Glenn, also will announce where he will play this fall. Glenn, a 6-0 deceptively fast guard, has been one of the Eagles' mainstays.

Romulus will launch the 1985-86 basketball season at home on Dec. 7 when Kalamazoo Loy Norrix comes to town.

'Perfect champs'

Belleville rules Wolverine 'A' swim

Scoring more than 100 points over their closest rival, defending champ, Belleville, continued its monopoly of the Wolverine 'A' Conference swimming title.

Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers retained the crown for the third consecutive year, winning a convincing 328-206 margin over its nearest challenger, Monroe. Following the frontrunners in the final standings were Wayne Memorial, Fordson, Trenton, Wyandotte and Lincoln Park.

The conference victory at Trenton put the finishing touches on a perfect 7-0 dual meet league season.

"These kids did a tremendous job," said Vicchy, "and they have worked long and hard to get where they are. I believe that our team depth was the key to the undefeated season and the conference championship."

Belleville boasted a double event winner in Karen Kotlarczyk who earned a third gold medal as a member of the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Kotlarczyk turned in a 25.68 in the 50-yard freestyle to strike gold in that event, then came through with a 56.57 in winning the 100-yard freestyle. She combined with Jenny Schurr, Tina Montie and Wendy Giza for a gold-winning 3:54.02 performance in the freestyle relay event.

"She's (Karen) just an outstanding swimmer and person," Vicchy said. "She has been a consistent performer throughout the years."

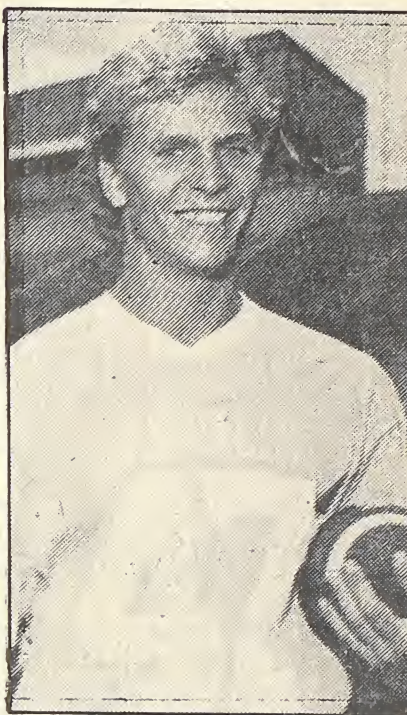

Belleville also received a pair of silver medal efforts from Giza in the 500 yard freestyle and the 100 yard backstroke while Melodie Merritt also finished third in both of those events.

Merritt accounted for a third place finish in the 200-yard freestyle and Giza touched in third for the 200-yard individual medley. Schurr was third in the 100-yard freestyle and Wendy Good wound up third best on the diving boards.

Belleville also received a second and third place from Reiko Snider and Bambi Gross in the 100-yard backstroke, respectively.

Jack Walker

Craig Thornton

Ex-Glenn grid stars earn college letters

Two former All-Area football stars are making their presence known on the collegiate gridiron this season.

Westland John Glenn grid star, Jack Walker, made his third appearance for the University of Michigan varsity club when he appeared against Purdue two weeks ago.

Walker, a 6-4, 235-pound converted tight end turned defensive tackle, stepped on to the playing field against the Boilermakers and helped subdue the Wolverines' Big 10 Conference opponent, 47-0.

Walker, whose aggressive, hard-hitting play in practice, prompted the shift to defense, put pressure onn the Purdue quarterback Doug Downing when he played in the fourth quarter.

Walker has also seen action against Wisconsin and Indiana.

Craig Thornton, Walker's former teammate at Glenn, also has a starting cornerback slot for Grand Valley State College this season.

The 6-1, 173 pound sophomore has six first hits and five assists, including a fumble recovery and two pass interceptions, one for 43 yards and a TD.

Grand Valley, under new head coach Tom Beck, has a 6-4 record and will close out its season Saturday against the University of Missouri-Rolla.

Undefeated

Raiders ride to 10-0 grid record

Westland John Glenn's varsity and junior varsity football teams were not the only teams in the area that boasted perfect regular seasons.

Joining the elite unbeaten group this season was the Varsity Unit of the Inkster Raiders who recorded a 10-0 year.

The unblemished record also was the key to the All-American Football League championship. The Raiders also won the AAFL playoff game against the Cannon Tars by a lopsided score of 37-0.

The Raiders also played in the Youth Bowl against the East Side Cowboys, representing the Police Athletic League (PAL). After a defensive battle, the Raiders came away with a well-deserved 7-0 victory.

Offensively, the Raiders amassed 327 points and defensively didn't yield a single TD.

In the six years the Raiders have been in existence, they have been in four AAFL playoffs and have won three (1982, 84 and 85) and also played in three Youth Bowls and won all three.

The Raiders are affiliated with the Inkster Youth Athletic Association (IYAA), a non-profit organization which fields football and basketball teams.

Members of the 1985 championship team include: James Eberheart, Frances Hayes, Charles Willis, Jeffrey Howard, Joel McCain, LaRon Price, Carlton Holiday and William Jones.

The team's line-up also include: Thomas Faison, Germarr Hister, Chris Knox, Alton Peterson, Keith Green, Calvin Ellison, Jermaine Jackson, Anthony Gray and Byron Long. Other members are Lionel Shivers, assistant coaches Andrew Dobbins and Sonny Washinton along with coaches Nathan Johnson, Cliff Jones and Otis Rogers.

Wolverine 'A' coaches pick all-league

Belleville and Wayne Memorial were represented on the 1985 all-Wolverine 'A' Conference football team this year. The team is picked by conference coaches.

Greg Hardmon, a junior who stood out for Belleville's Tigers, was named as an offensive end.

Wayne placed two of its members on the all-conference team. Named are Mike Cooney, a senior linebacker, and Dave Florn, a senior defensive back.

Belleville also had Jim Utt, a senior who quarterbacked the Tigers, and Darrell Elder, a defensive end, picked for second team consideration.

Here is the 1985 offensive line-up as chosen by the coaches:

At quarterback is Fordson's Mike Iaquaniello, while the running backs include: John Milligan(Trenton), Gerry Garcia (Lincoln Park), and Jesse Lathan(Monroe). The offensive line consists of Scott Lewis(Fordson), Steve Calhoun(Lincoln Park), John Taft(Monroe), Tom Boritzki(Trenton) and Scott Gibaratz (Trenton).

Andy Salagan (Fordson) and Hardmon, the ends, round out the line-up. They are ends.

The coaches also selected Belleville's Dennis Montie as their choice for the all-conference punter.

The defense looks like this: Mike Kostovski(Fordson), Steve Voss(Trenton), Lance Lankford(Trenton), Dino DeMelis(Lincoln Park) and Dave Sobocinski(Wyandotte) as the linemen; Bill Cheplick(Trenton) and Mike Cobney(Wayne) as linebackers; and the backs are: Jim Menna(Trenton), Jeff Waple(Trenton), Florn(Wayne) and Steve Brown(Lincoln Park).

Ocelots earn national volleyball title bid

Getting excellent over-all efforts from the offense and the defense buckling down when needed, Schoolcraft's spikers steamrolled to the regional championship in Kalazamoo last week.

Leading the way for the lady Ocelots were freshman sensations Kim Relyea of Westland who had 64 "killed spikes" as well as Ann Bennett (36 kills), Sue Cyrus (33 kills), and Kathy McIntosh (30 kills).

After cruising past Cuyahoga 15-7, 15-4 and Macomb 15-9, 14-16, and 15-8, Schoolcraft then met up with Henry Ford. Schoolcraft defeated their arch-rivals, but not without incident. With the score knotted at 13-all, Patti Kozicki served up a ball that was returned and set up for Cyrus to pound.

After the hit, which scored the 14th point for Schoolcraft, Cyrus landed off-balance and fell to the floor holding her left leg to the knee.

A trip to the hospital after the game showed no broken bones but ligament damage is suspected. This could set Cyrus back for an indefinite period of time.

On Sunday, Schoolcraft continued to win and bolstered by Amy Lotero's defensive effort as a first-time starter, upending Lansing in the semi-finals 15-12, 15-13. They faced the Stars again in a very emotional final match and had to fight tooth-and-nail before winning 13-15, 15-12, 15-13, 7-15 and 16-14.

In this crucial match, Wayne's Kathy McIntosh had the "hot" arm as she drove home eight kills to give the Ocelots the victory and the regional championship.

A teary-eyed group watched as coach Tom Teeters also received an award - that of Regional XII Volleyball Coach of the Year. The Schoolcraft team will travel to Miami, Florida for the National Junior College Athletic Association's volleyball championships.

just married

LaLonde-Portelli are wed

Shari Lynn LaLonde, of Jackson Street, Belleville, is the new bride of Tanio Mario Portelli, of Minerva, Westland. The couple were joined in a double-ring ceremony at the Fairlane Assembly of God on Oct. 5.

The new Mrs. Portelli is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence LaLonde. She is a 1980 Belleville High School graduate and is presently employed at Automotive Appliance Company in Livonia.

Her new husband, Tanio, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmelo Portelli. He attended the University of Masa in Marsa, Malta. (Malta is a small island in Europe, 60 miles south of Sicily.)

Portelli works at Tesco Engineering Services in Westland.

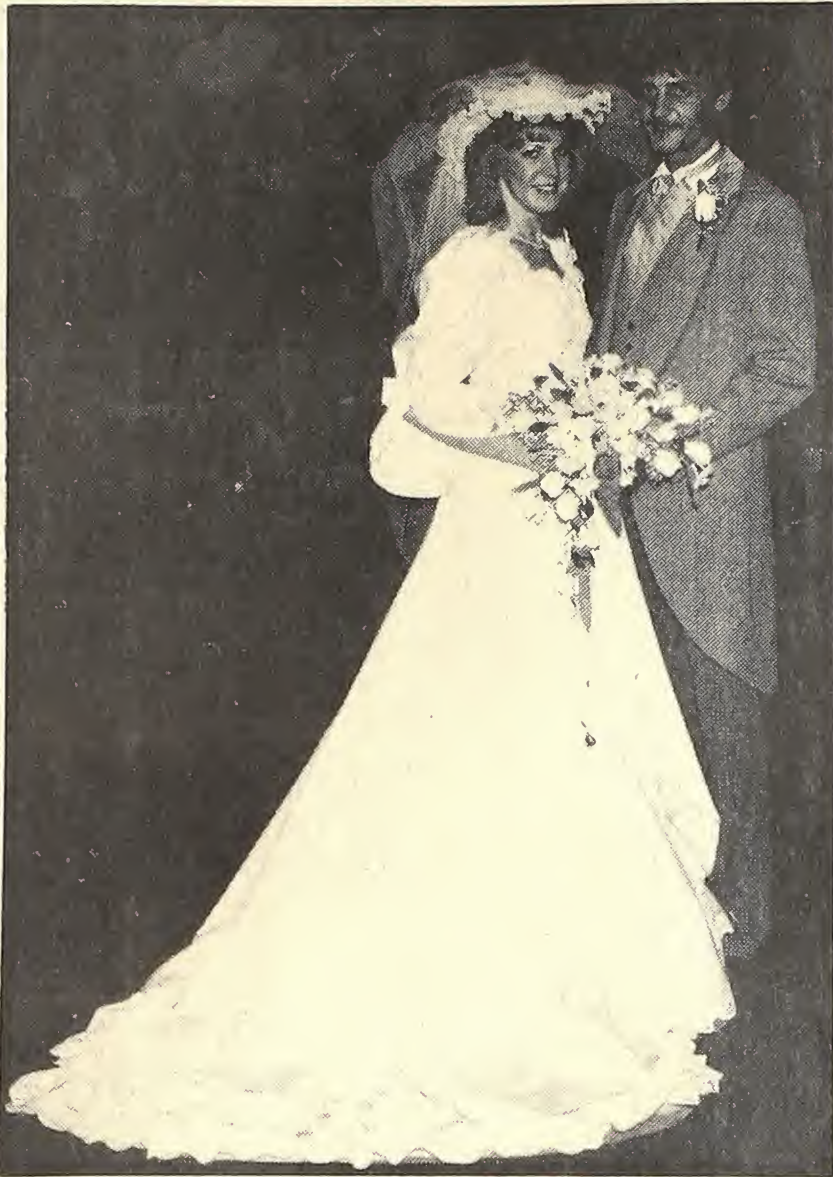

The wedding ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Gary R. Cullison. The church was decorated in light and dark pink carnations. Mrs. Gary Cullison provided the music for the celebration.

The bridal gown was of a matte taffeta with a silk Venice-lace bodice and low scoop neckline in front and back. A free bouffant skirt with colonial bottom and chantilly lace tier inserts added to the gown's beauty. Also featured on the dress was a full-length train, three-quarter length sleeves and a large ruffle of taffeta and chantilly lace with bows at inserts.

The veil was an Australian-styled hat with a spray of silk flowers. The brim was adorned with silk Venice appliques and bridal illusions cascading down the back.

Her bouquet was colored white with pink roses and burgandy rosebud accents provided the final touch.

Lawrence Lee LaLonde, the bride's father, gave her away for the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanio Portelli

Participating in the ceremony were LeeAnn LaLonde, maid-of-honor, sister of the bride; and bridesmaids, Mrs. Dale Henry, sister of the bride; Mrs. Robert Shrumpton, groom's sister; Mrs. Jon Blanchard, bride's cousin; Miss Carol Lange, friend of the bride; and Mrs. Rodney Lemmon, also a friend of the bride.

For the groom, those standing up in the ceremony included best man, Raymond Portelli, groom's brother; and ushers, Robert Shrumpton, brother-in-law of groom; James Olech, brother-in-law of the groom; Dale Henry, brother-in-law of the bride; Charles Wilson, friend of the groom; and Randolph Smith, also a friend of the groom.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Daytona Beach, Fla., for a week and also visited Orlando. The couple has made their new home on Minerva Street in Westland.

Vogts celebrate 50th

The "Oddfellows Temple" of Wayne was the scene of a celebration honoring Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vogt Sr., of Westland, for their 50th wedding anniversary.

Approximately 110 family members, relatives and friends gathered to share the couple's special day. The Oct. 13 party was hosted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs.

Stacey Phillips

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vogt

Leonard Vogt, of Westland, and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Phillips of Wayne.

The highlight of the celebration was the couple's reaffirmation of their wedding vows. The two also exchanged gold wedding bands.

The ceremony was performed by nephew Jack Wyeth of Pickney, Mich. Mrs. Vogt chose a blue cape with chiffon overlay formal gown while granddaughter Stacey Phillips surprised her grandmother by appearing in Mrs. Vogt's original wedding gown of turquoise waterfall moire with a stand-up collar.

Many special memories were shared by all in attendance. Mementos and pictures of their 50 years of marriage were on display at the event. Special congratulatory messages were sent from various celebrities including Perry Como, Carol Burnett, Lucille Ball, Ralph Edwards, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter and President Reagan.

Mr. Vogt is originally from Edwards Township, Mich. He was employed by Chrysler Corporation for 37 years prior to retirement. Mrs. Vogt is from Boyne City. She has been a full-time homemaker to her family. United in marriage in 1935, the two have remained at their Cherry Hill residence in Westland since 1937.

Add a name

A story last week misidentified a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sliwa. Her name should have identified her as Patricia Shephark.

Sullens celebrate 60th with party

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sullens will observe their 60th wedding anniversary at an open house on Saturday, Nov. 23, 1985.

The event is slated from 2 to 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Belleville First United Methodist Church. The couple requests no gifts.

Their children and their spouses will serve as hosts and hostesses. They include Harry Sullens, Janet Button and Patricia Touse. The couple has another son, Richard, now deceased.

There are 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Arthur Sullens took Fannie Fry as his bride on Nov. 24, 1925, at the Methodist parsonage in Ypsilanti. They set up housekeeping in Belleville and have lived there for 52 of their 60 married years.

Mr. Sullens is a former businessman in Belleville, having co-owned and operated the Hi-Speed Service Station on Main Street and, later, the Gulf Service Station on East Huron River Drive. After his retirement, he served five years as a custodian of the Belleville First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Sullens formerly taught in the Sumpter and Van Buren public school systems.

Both are former members of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club and Mrs. Sullens is currently involved in the Women's Society of her church.

All friends and acquaintances of the couple are invited to attend the open house and share in the celebration of 60 years together.

Patrice Munsell delights local audience

By DAVID CONLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Medicine never tasted so good. The Oakwood Hospital Foundation chose Patrice Munsell to entertain at its President's Society Dinner last Thursday, and she enchanted her audience with a smooth mixture of show tunes, opera, and pop songs.

Before her performance, Munsell admitted that she doesn't find "that many great songs being written these days, with an exception being Elton John, who's written some very fine songs." Her usual repertoire "runs to a little of everything—I love comedy, and opera, George Gershwin songs, show tunes from things like "Showboat," and more recent songs like "Memories" and "Send in the Clowns."

Munsell's career is spicy with variety. A soprano, she was the youngest singer ever to begin her career in the Metropolitan Opera, making her debut in a Met production of "Mignon" at the age of 17. And even while she was making her mark doing acclaimed work in operas like "La Boheme" and "Die Fledermaus," she was branching out.

She won praise for her roles in musical comedies like "Kiss Me Kate" and "South Pacific." Her crowning success came as the star of "The Merry Widow," which broke box office records during its run at New York's Lincoln Center.

"I find that the older audiences will always enjoy the old show classics, and the music of Gershwin and Porter. But I do a lot of college appearances now, and you know what? The younger people are eager to hear the old standards."

And, if Munsell has her way, they'll get the chance to hear those standards sung by someone who loves them. Her performance at the President's Society Dinner was like her gold lame gown: slick and showy, recalling old glamour.

Ficano: Budget cuts are unfair

By RAY DAY
ANP Staff Writer

The budget ax began chopping again in the past few weeks, this time with its aim toward programs administered by Wayne County. County Executive William Lucas finalized his budget for the coming fiscal year with sharp reductions slated for many county services and a big chunk of funding slashed in the sheriff's department. But, the ax will not fall until the sheriff's department can amass an aggressive fight, or so is the word from the department's head, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano.

If the budget is passed in its present form, the sheriff's department would face the elimination of two special patrol units and a cutback in the number of officers patrolling the county parks, according to Ficano.

With the reduction in special crime units would also come a reduction in personnel, a breach of contract by the county with the deputies' union, according to Ficano. This staff reduction, Ficano feels, would open the doors to a lawsuit against the county and give county law enforcement employees solid grounds to base their case.

Sheriff doesn't rule out high political intentions

The governmental ax began chopping many county programs and departmental budgets this year as a result of the loss of some $2 million in federal revenue sharing to the county, a loss of more than $7 million being paid out by the county due for judgement settlements after two major court battles ended in defeat, and rises in employee wages, benefits and overall operations. Lucas proposed a $204 million budget for fiscal year 1986, beginning Dec. 1, 1985, marking a 5 percent increase in county expenditures.

One department heavily hit by the budget ax was the county sheriff's department. If the budget is adopted, the felony warrant squad and O.U.I.L. squads would be nixed and deputy manpower in the county parks would fall from 41 officers to 10.

The felony warrant squad is used to track suspects who fail to appear for an arraignment, escape or jump bond. The program costs the county $328,000 to operate annually and serves all cities within the county and works in conjunction with the City of Detroit.

"This year if that squad is eliminated that would be 750 less arrests. Most police departments don't have anyone to go out and pursue someone. It's probably one of the most important services in the sheriff's office," said Ficano of the warrant squad.

A second program in the sheriff's department slated to die if the current budget is passed is the O.U.I.L. squad. The program

Lucas: Budget worries already corrected

By CURT JORDET
ANP Staff Writer

It is a rare occurrence, indeed, when a political issue is decisive enough that it brings both Democrat and Republican alike onto the same side of the fence. Apparently, however, that seems to be the case with regard to the question of who is going to patrol the ever-popular county park land along Edward Hines Drive.

A seeming rift between Democrats on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and Wayne County Executive William Lucas, who abandoned that party in hopes of a more powerful future with the Republican slate, has quietly been put to rest by the effervescent leader of one of the country's most populous counties.

While several powerful Democrats in western Wayne County assailed an original budget proposal by Lucas for the 1986 fiscal year that would have decreased county patrols in the park, Lucas said late last week that the proposal has since been changed to one that will keep patrol levels at the current rate.

Chief among the Democratic forces objecting to the original budget plan was County Commissioner Kay Beard and Sheriff Robert Ficano.

In explaining the situation that caused the uproar, Lucas admitted that a preliminary proposal submitted before the Board of Commissioners contained cutbacks that would have lopped 21 of the 31 full-time deputies from the park patrol. Lucas explained, however, that when the matter was brought to his attention it was "immediately changed to ensure adequate patrols in the area."

"We don't want to decrease the level of patrols in the park at all," Lucas explained. "While the first budget proposal did call for those cutbacks, the commissioners brought the matter to my attention and the necessary changes were made. It was simply a matter of re-arranging priorities."

The 17.5-mile stretch of parkway extends from Dearborn to Northville and includes part of Westland and the Plymouth-Canton area. According to a release from Beard, the original budget proposal from Lucas chopped $1.3 million from the park's monetary allocation.

Lucas commended the board on its attentiveness to detail and added that he believes "there should be no reduction in staff."

"The security of our parks is vital in order to let our citizens take full advantage of the facilities," he continued. "I realized that the proposed budget would not leave the patrol of the parks at a sufficiently high level, so corrections were made."

Lucas pointed to his history of defending the Hines Park patrol, and cited an incident in 1981 that brought attention to the plight of Hines Park.

In that incident, Lucas ignored the board's decision to eliminate the Hines Park patrol and instead organized a volunteer patrol when the commissioners cut off funding. The face-off brought national attention to the problems of Wayne County and caused one city -

Dearborn Heights - to close its portion of the park until the matter could be settled.

As for the future of William Lucas? He isn't saying anything until at least 1986, though he admitted that recent visits to outlying areas of the state were designed to "give others a chance to look at me and know who I am in case I do decide to seek higher office at sometime in the future."

Ficano fears cuts

The program, Operating Under the Influence of Liquor Squad, is responsible for the arrest and conviction of drunken and intoxicated drivers on county roads, according to Ricano. The $360,000-a-year program uses six county officers trained in spotting intoxicated drivers.

The sheriff points to figures showing more than 600 arrests each year as a result of the squad in validating the program's existence.

"All this squad does is go out and pick up drunk drivers," reported Ficano. "They average 50 arrests per month. What's interesting is that Wayne County last year was the only county in the state where alcohol-related deaths went down."

Also scheduled for a sharp reduction is the county park patrol which is responsible for law enforcement in county parks such as Edward Hines and the Lower Rouge parks. Ficano, once again, feels that past performance of the program should stand alone in the decision to keep or cut the park program.

Currently, 31 full-time park officers are assigned to the parks with 10 additional manpower units used in the summer months. With the new budget intact, the number of full-time officers would be cut to 10.

"What will happen is that we won't even be able to guarantee a car per shift. We've pushed out the narcotics and the underdesireables. We're starting to bring the families back to the parks," said Ficano in his plea to keep the park patrol.

Also questionable if the budget is approved is the continuance of a winter program in the parks.

Although his greatest resource in defending the three programs of his office are past records and what he calls safety to citizens, Ficano also indicates that cutting funds to the programs and reducing personnel would be against the current contract for the county deputies.

The deputy union at their last bargaining talks agreed to wage concessions in exchange for a provision that staffing at the sheriff's department would not be cut.

"What is ironic about these two units is that all of these were provided as a result of concessions. The deputies gave up cost of living allowances and holidays. If they don't fund (these programs), what they're doing is inviting a lawsuit," remarked Ficano.

Nevertheless, a revised version of the county budget has been approved by the commissioners and is now headed to Lucas's office. The county executive, under the charter, has the power to veto the entire proposal, veto specific items by using a "line item veto" or not act. If Lucas does not act on the measure, the budget will be adopted. However, current opinion by many top officials in the county is that the budget battle is not over.

"I think Lucas is going to veto it," said Ficano.

The county sheriff indicated that he will continue his fight to secure more funding for the sheriff's department with added hints that a fight for the county executive's position is also beginning. Ficano could not confirm reports that he is seeking the top seat in the county but he also could not rule out the possibility.

"I guess we would seriously take a look at it," said Ficano of the possibility of running for county executive. "It would be pre-mature to say at this time."

Help is on the way if you're truly serious about kicking that cigarette habit. University Medical Associates 35605 Warren Road (across from Westland Center) will be the site for two free introductory stop smoking sessions. Happy Birthday, John!

It was business as usual for most of the day at John Rogin Buick in Wayne last Tuesday, without a soul mentioning the owner's 32nd birthday - until nearly 40 members of the John Glenn High School Marching Band appeared in the garage area of the dealership striking up a rousing version of "Happy Birthday." A surprised Rogin was also treated to a huge chocolate birthday cake - with candles, of course, and punch for all on hand. Employees had made a donation to the band and provided the refreshments in an effort to surprise their boss. It worked!

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

On our cover

Christmas, says Chef Larry, is about children – and children better portray the spirit of the holidays than does anything else. When it came time for our cookbook cover, Larry would not settle for anything less than children – and lots of them with Santa. The children seen here and on our cover are to remind us all of how important and precious these little people are – not only at Christmas, but all year through. Enjoy our cookbook, and let these little faces bring some holiday kindness to everything you do!

Presenting our winning recipes and the best from Chef Larry Janes

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

Christmas is a time for joy.
Christmas is a time for caring.
Christmas is a time for sharing.

When the Executive Editors of Associated Newspapers approached me to write this special Holiday Recipe Pullout section, at first I was flattered. Then reality set in and the task of filling 16 pages with copy and recipes overwhelmed me to say the least. But as I worked in my test kitchen making Gingerbread Houses, and testing all the special recipes, I found myself beginning once again "Getting into the Holiday Spirit". Only this time, it was about one month earlier than usual.

My entire family really gets in the spirit, but that usually doesn't happen til after Dec. 1, again, when I begin the ritualistic baking and food preparation.

What a joy it was to begin filling my home with the aromas of the holidays. I watched my family oooh and aaah as I presented trays of goodies. Even my advertising family at the newspaper enjoyed my breakfast muffins.

But most of all, I again heralded the beginning of the most wonderful time of the year by setting aside many of my creations to serve as holiday gifts for friends and relatives.

Isn't that what it's all about? . . . CARING AND SHARING?

My holiday wish to you this year.....
...may your souffles never fall
...may your cookies never burn

...Spend some time this season with a young loved one and share something homemade and traditional. Something that wasn't purchased in a store, but made in the home and with the heart.

...PEACE ON EARTH, GOODWILL TO ALL PEOPLE!

Make your holiday foods look special

By CHEF LARRY JANES

There are many simple ways to make food look more attractive. A small amount of contrasting color, for instance, seems to make food come alive. Perhaps the best known example of this is the ubiquitous sprig of parsley. This perky bit of bright green adds interest to vegetables, meat, salads and fruits. Parsley is a wonderful garhish; not only is it pretty but it is also an excellent source of vitamins and minerals. It is in perfect taste to eat the parsley that's left on your plate after dinner. Did you know that parsley also contains a natural breath purifier?

Grated citrus fruits are good for adding color, too. Lemon rind looks very appealing with ANY green vegetable. Orange rind adds a cheerful look to chicken and fish. Lemon slices are another popular garnish. Make them even more colorful by sprinkling lightly with cinnamon or paprika, or by adding a tiny sprig of parsley to the center.

When you serve individual portions at the table, place a bed of shredded lettuce or spinach on large platters used to carry the food to the table. Save the green to use in a tossed salad.

Crisp cut vegetables add a decorative touch to many foods. Radish roses and radish accordions are pretty, so are pickle fans. Unpeeled cucumbers and zucchini that have been scored with a form and then sliced make gorgeous additions.

To make carrot curls, pare a large carrot with a vegetable peeler. Cut paper thin strips lengthwise. Roll each strip tightly. Secure with a bit of toothpick or paper clip, then place in iced water for 30 minutes, remove picks and clips before serving.

Ditto with celery strips.

To make radish roses, invest 79 cents in a plastic rosette maker that can be purchased at many stores around town.

To make radish accordions and pickle fans, cut crosswise in thin strips almost to the end. Chill radishes on ice for one hour, spread pickle fans out gently using fingers.

For best results, use the sharpest knife around!

To make fluted mushrooms caps, hold a sharp paring knife in one hand with the mushroom cap in the other. At the center of the cap, pull knife to the bottom of the cap while slowly twisting cap with the other hand. Repeat all around the mushroom.

How to create a traditional gingerbread house

Gingerbread Housemaking

GINGERBREAD

1/2 cup solid white vegetable shortening
1 cup molasses
1/4 cup warm water
4 cups all purpose flour
1/8 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons ground pepper
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt

Melt shortening, then add molasses and warm water. Mix in dry ingredients until smooth. chill several hours. Roll out dough in small amounts. Cut out pattern and transfer to a cookie sheet lined with parchment paper. Make sure pattern cuts are straight when transferring. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until golden brown. Recipe should make one large house or 4 small ones. Assemble house using royal icing.

ROYAL ICING

3 tablespoons meringue powder (available at cake/candy shops)
1 pound powdered sugar (4 cups)
6 tablespoons warm water

In a mixer, combine all ingredients and beat for 8 minutes until icing forms stiff peaks. Keep icing stored in an airtight container. Needs no refrigeration. It dries out quickly so do not leave exposed to air. Keep decorator tip on a damp towel to prevent hardening of tip.

Assembling The Gingerbread House:

- 1.) Bake each piece, making sure that windows, doors, etc. are all cut out BEFORE baking.
- 2.) Cool baked pieces in a flat surface.
- 3.) With a pastry tube and royal icing, frost or decorate each piece as you desire. The icing hardens fast, so have any candies needed to decorate on hand and ready to go.

4.) Once all the parts are decorated, squeeze a row of the frosting onto a base or board. (I use styrofoam)

5.) Pipe icing on the base and side edge of the end piece. Bonding both edges with royal icing makes for better fit.

6.) Put end and side pieces into piped lines on the base, making sure the sides are touching. Hold for a minute until they feel "set".

7.) Do the same with the other side and end piece until the house is up. Now you are ready for the roof.

8.) Pipe icing on the upper edges of the ends and one side wall. (Half the house) Put one roof piece in, making sure it is set before letting go.

9.) If you have a heavily decorated roof, use extra time and holding patterns to make sure it is "set". Do not rush this step.

10.) Repeat the process from Step 8, using the other side of the roof. AGAIN. DO NOT RUSH.

11.) Pipe all edges to cover the seams. Licorice can be used cover for some added detail.

THE WINNERS!

Anna Stoltz knows a winner when she's got one. . . and she wasn't wrong this time. Her Hungarian Cake was the outstanding recipe from the multitude submitted for Chef Larry to judge.

Obviously, he loved it. And for her willingness to share her prize winner, she was awarded the $50 gift certificate courtesy of Paddy's Pub in Westland.

Mrs. Stoltz, 70, has been baking this cake for special occasions and holidays since her mother taught her how long ago. It is a favorite of her family and much sought-after.

Our winner admits she loves to bake and cake-decorating is a hobby of hers. Obviously, her experience has paid off.

Try these tips to avoid the holiday bulge

...Before beginning any function, dinner, cooking or whatever where food will be prevalent, spend 2 minutes telling yourself how good you feel when you're thin. Do this privately and quietly, trying to concentrate on each word.

...Ask for your friends and family's aid during these times.

...Don't spend time counting all calories. Count the ones that really matter. Let's face it, we didn't get fat overeating shrimp cocktails. It was the fudge, drinks, chips and dips, etc., etc., etc.

...If going to a party where you know you will be tempted, eat a satisfying meal BEFORE. If you choose to watch your alcohol intake, add a twist of lemon or lime to your glass of water, soda, tonic, to make it look like a real one.

...Carry a small pad of paper with hour markers listed on it. Sustain your diet not on a daily basis, but an hourly one!

...If you must bake this year, bake only when you are rested well fed. Make sure you have something lower in calories snack on available at all times during this. Chew gum.

...If you do overeat at a brunch, cut back on dinner. Ditto for the other meals.

...Last but not least....Don't give up because you blew it once, twice or three times. "When you're down in the dirt and they're kicking sand all over you, pick yourself up, wipe yourself off and start all over again."

...If need be, join a diet or health club for added support.

But for sweet teeth. . .

Meet Sarah Alexander. She's obviously a bit young to follow Chef Larry's recipes, but she was just the right age to steal the show (or nearly) at our cover photo session. She took to the mixing bowl and wooden spoon with aplomb . . . and soon won the heart of Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko. We couldn't resist this tiny picture of the real joy of Christmas.

Feeling creative?

Try making these 'bread dough' ornaments

Bakers Clay

4 cups sifted flour
1 cup salt
1 3/4 cups water

Combine flour and salt together, add water until a soft dough forms. Form into free form shapes, bake at 225 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until ornament is firm. Chef's suggestion: Use parchment paper for easy removal!

Marzipan

(Makes about 32 at 1/2 ounce each)

1 package almond paste
2 cups powdered sugar
4 teaspoons Karo syrup (lite)
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg white, slightly beaten

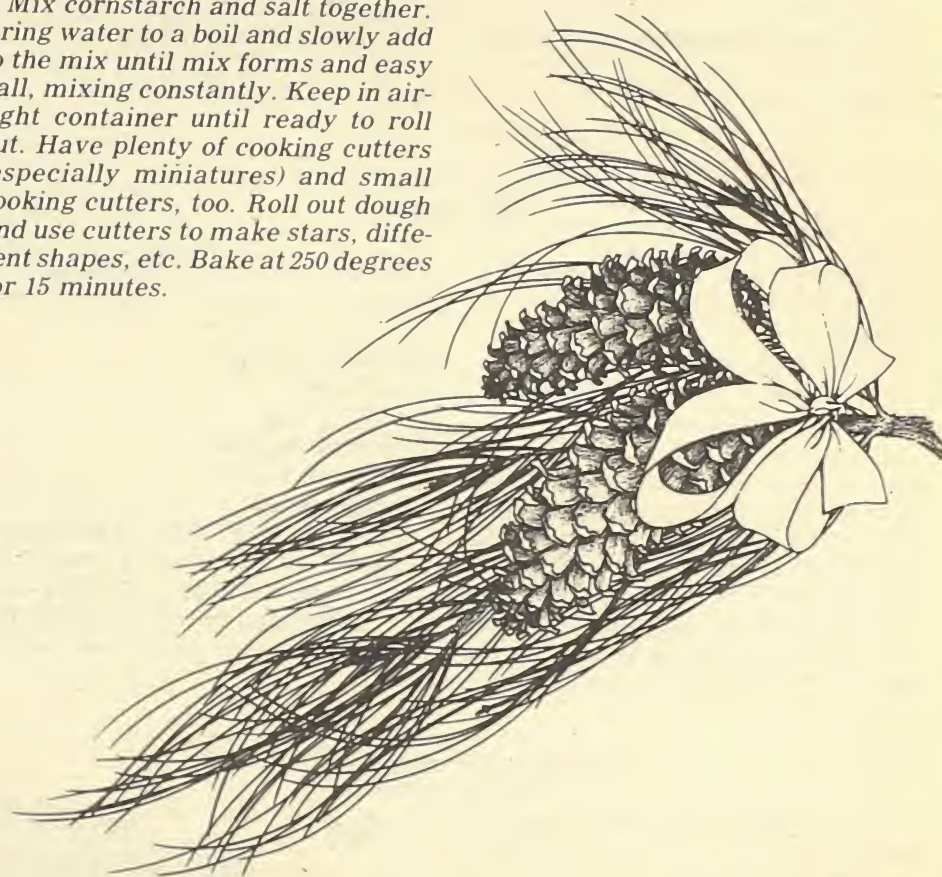

Crumble almond paste into a bowl, add Karo syrup, sugar and vanilla. Gradually add the egg white until dough reaches the consistency of heavy pie dough. Use cornstarch while kneading. Once dough is made, it can be tinted different colors using PASTE food color and can be made into your own designs, or as it should be made, into small fruits. Remember to store in an airtight container to preserve softness.

Snowflake Clay

1 cup salt
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup plus 2 teaspoons water

Mix cornstarch and salt together. Bring water to a boil and slowly add to the mix until mix forms and easy ball, mixing constantly. Keep in airtight container until ready to roll out. Have plenty of cooking cutters (especially miniatures) and small cooking cutters, too. Roll out dough and use cutters to make stars, different shapes, etc. Bake at 250 degrees for 15 minutes.

The bakers clay and snowflake clay are arts and crafts type workable clays. They can be made up ahead of time and if kept in an airtight container, will last almost indefinitely. Clay can be colored with food coloring before baking or painted with temperas after baking. I use these recipes for making "long-lasting" gingerbread houses (inedible) and for making small gingerbread houses that can be hung on the tree!

Holiday cooking tips

By CHEF LARRY JANES

...To make your own cake decorator bag, roll up a piece of waxed paper into a cone shape so that one end has a smaller opening than the other. Snip the small end with scissors to make a good point. fill with icing and away you go!

...If the tops of your holiday cakes are browning too fast, place a pan of hot water above the cake on a rack while baking.

...Heat fruit and raisins in the oven before adding to fruit cakes, cakes and muffins. that way they will be more plump and juicier!

...Brush the bottoms of unbaked pie shells with an egg white before filling. this keeps berries and other fruits from making pie bottoms mushy.

...for the highest meringues, add a pinch of baking POWDER to the whites before beating.

...For the lightest pancakes ever, use club soda in place of milk. Use all the batter or it will go flat.

...Cream whipped ahead of time will not separate if you add a pinch of dissolved unflavored gelatin.

...No shortening for your pie crust? Substitute creamy peanut butter for a delicious difference!

...No nuts? Try oatmeal browned in a small amount of butter or margarine.

...Brown sugar will NOT harden if stored in the freezer!

...Polish tarnished silver by lining the bottom of a pan with aluminum foil, add 3 tablespoons of baking soda to one quart of water and heat to almost boiling. Dip silver into the water and let it remain until the tarnish disappears.

...Instead of using a metal roasting pan, make a grid with carrot and celery sticks and place meat or poultry on it. The vegetables will help flavor the pan drippings!

...Plain unflavored dental floss is great for trussing turkeys...It's strong and will not burn.
